In November, 2015, our partner organizations Lifesong for Orphans and Ministre de Bras Ouverts joined together to develop a 45 acre site in Bercy, Haiti, about an hour northwest of Port Au Prince. We visited in August of 2016.

While we were there we: - witnessed the dedication of the leadership team on the ground

- experienced the respectful relationships they have developed with the local Haitian people
- met a family who were the very grateful recipients of the house we had raised funds for
- were able to participate in the feeding program they have for local children
- visited the agricultural development and the construction site
- spent time in the open air Community centre - We made friends there and we can't wait to go back!

Since we left: HURRICANE MATTHEW happened but the site was spared severe damage – no local lives were lost

- construction was completed on the guest house as well as additional housing for local workers
- foundations for the family style residences for orphan housing were poured
- building for the grade 7-8 classroom and the computer lab are completed, grade 9-10 classrooms are in progress
- a desalination machine has been successfully installed on one of the two drilled wells
- additional fencing has been built in preparation for goats and cattle
- the soccer fields have been made ready

Much has been accomplished but much remains to be done.
